American Shopper ★

United States, 2007 | 84 min. | Dir. Tamas Bojtor

Buy tickets for this film on the SIFF website.

SIFF may spurn the term "mockumentary," but American Shopper dissolves the line between fact and fiction. Genre aside, its good-natured spirit is hard to resist. Set in Columbia, Missouri, and populated by locals—no big names here—the action revolves around "aisling." Described as a sport, it's more like a variety show on wheels. Shoppers decorate themselves and their carts, then run a short obstacle course. Though the pace drags on occasion, Bojtor and Dessau's gently humorous hybrid spoofs fringe competitions as much as it salutes small-town dreamers. by KATHY FENNESSY
